Dear Friends and Allies,

Here and attached is the latest breaking news on the DuPont Plant in Reserve, Louisiana.

The short version DuPont knew before they sold the plant in 2011 that there would be major costs to make the plant safer and reduce air pollution impacts on the community.

Revealed: chemicals giant sold Louisiana plant amid fears over cost of offsetting toxic emissions

Multibillion-dollar company DuPont worried about the potential cost of offsetting emissions of a 'likely human carcinogen'

"They prioritize profits over people. They come to your neighborhoods and give you as little information as possible," said Lydia Gerard, another resident who lost her husband to cancer in 2018. "To me this shows that DuPont thought, 'Let's see how long we can get away with it in this community before anyone finds out and says anything about it.'"

Yours in the Struggle,

Darryl

Those who profess to favor freedom and yet depreciate agitation, are people who want crops without ploughing the ground; they want rain without thunder and lightning; they want the ocean without the roar of its many waters. The struggle may be a moral one, or it may be a physical one, or it may be both. But it must be a struggle. Power concedes nothing without a demand; it never has and it never will. Find out just what any people will quietly submit to and you have found out the exact measure of injustice and wrong which will be imposed upon them, and these will continue till they are resisted with either words or blows, or with both.
